

Large energy errors need not imply low exact-state projection

